

Language Identification Organizer

Listen closely and check off each phrase as you hear it.

[] This is a book about a man who, at age 50, has run out of ideas, probably run out of energy to live and devotes his entire life just to read.

[] where we are in constant need of finding something that justifies our days.

[] This is the novel that teaches us that everything is subjective, that truth is relative, that each of us can have a dream

[] It is a book that has changed every time I read it.

[] to inspire people, to convince them that they themselves can become quixotic.

[] We have the impression that it is a book written against the Inquisition, which wasn't really true.

[] Cervantes really saw a great deal of the world.

[] the most popular but the least intellectually celebrated of them all - the novel.

[] This is actually about a literary character

[] If a writer doesn't do anything but give a new word to his language and from there maybe to other languages, I think that writer redefines the world.